Forest Management Professionals

Join AAFMP

Instructional design with regulatory purpose. AAFMP is hiring a Director of Competence and Practice Development to design and deliver the programs to assess whether candidates are ready to practise independently as forestry professionals. This role puts education and instructional design expertise to work in a regulated professional setting — where program design is grounded in legislation and oriented toward protection of the public interest.

Director of Competence & Practice Development

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Design and administer courses and exams to prepare and assess professional competence.
- Conduct credit for prior learning assessments.
- Aid in the maintenance of national professional competency standards.
- Contribute to the development of the continuing competence program framework.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Bachelor's degree or equivalence in instructional design, adult learning, or education technology.
- Experience in instructional design and delivery in higher education.
- Proficiency with digital learning tools, assessment programs, and learning management systems.
- A background in forestry, natural resources, or a regulated profession brings valuable context to this work.
